

DRAWING CONCLUSIONS FROM INFORMATION CHART

TEACHING NOTES

You can use the Drawing Conclusions from Information Chart when you assign an informative essay or a research report. You can also use the transparency to help students learn to analyze logical argument in persuasive nonfiction selections.

overhead projector. Ask students to provide facts about a familiar topic, and to draw a conclusion from those facts. You may want to extend the activity by having students write paragraphs based on the information on the transparency.

Presentation

To give students practice in drawing conclusions from information, place the transparency on the

Model Drawing Conclusions from Information Chart

Fact	Fact	Fact	Fact
Slaves were not paid for their work.	Slaves were not protected by laws.	Slaves were not allowed to attend school.	Slaves lived in fear for their lives.
Conclusion
Slaves were deprived of basic human rights.

